MOTUL

Pueblos Magicos is a unique tourism program established on October 5th, 2001 by Mexico's Tourism Ministry (SECTUR) and various government institutions. The program recognizes the efforts of cities and towns that strive to safeguard and preserve their cultural heritage by offering this designation.

The purpose of this program is to extend tourism highlighting unique historical and cultural locations away from large urban centers.

It aims to promote local artists, customs, and gastronomy while creating adventure and ecotouristic products, and to revitalize these towns by making them appealing to national and international visitors.

These Pueblos Magicos (magical towns) showcase the Mexican national identity through their architecture, landscapes, gastronomy, and traditions. Throughout Mexico, there are currently 177 Pueblos Magicos, 7 of which are in the state of Yucatan.
